

Listing & mapping organisations representing the small-scale fishing fleet in the south western waters of the European Union

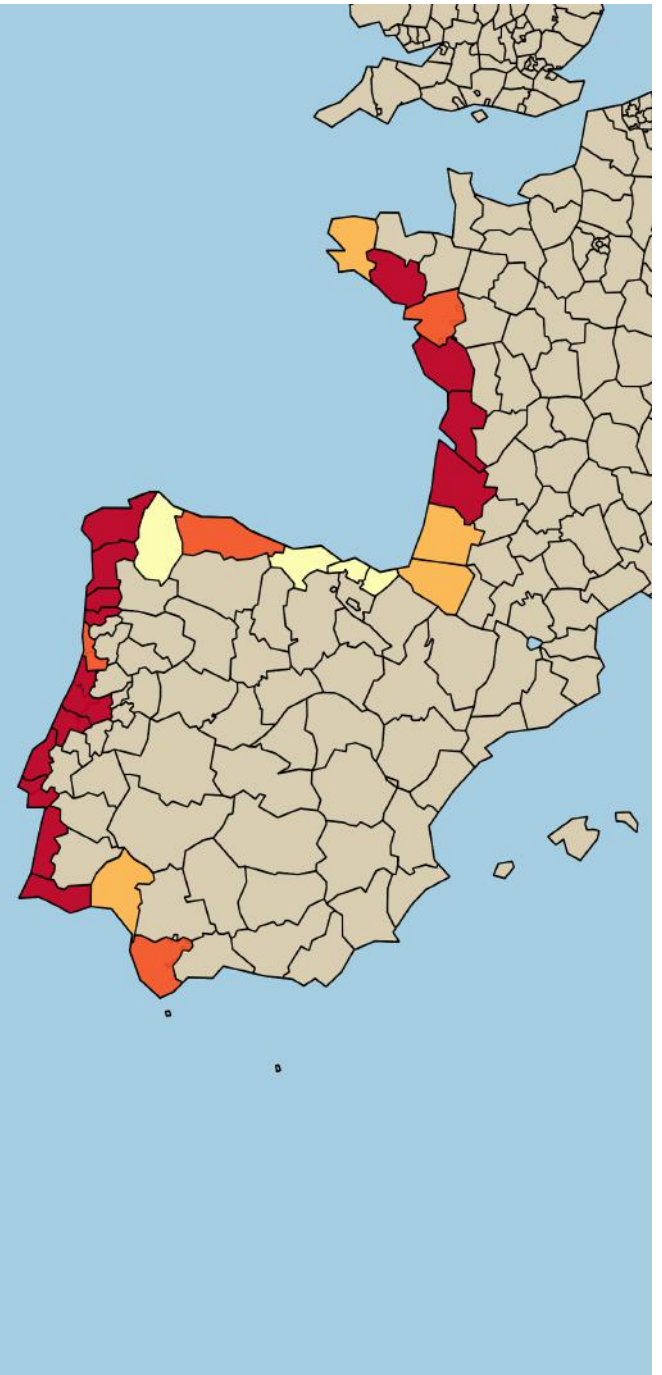

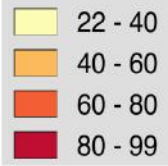

Deliverable 1

BG SEA CONSULTING EIRL, February 2016

250 0 250 500 750 1000 km

Comment regarding last map:

- The small-scale fishing fleet is widely the majority (in numbers) in most regions of SWWAC's area, representing more than 80% of the fleet.
- The small-scale is less abundant in the following regions (NUTS 3): Finistère, Loire-Atlantique, Landes, Pyrénées-Atlantiques, Pays basque espagnol, Lugo, Huelva et Cadiz
- SWWAC's area have been divided into regions usual corresponding to NUTS 3 range except for Portugal mainland where three regions have been identified for interviews. From south to north, regions are : Canarias, Madeira, Azores, Andalusia, Portugal – South, Portugal – Center, Portugal – North, Galicia, Asturias, Cantabria, Spanish Basque Country, Aquitaine, Poitou-Charentes, Pays de la Loire, Bretagne

Comment regarding last map:

- Considering the SWWAC's area the small-scale fleet is massively more numerous in Galicia and south of Portugal (in numbers)
- Nota Bene: figures are based on the community fleet register. However, it appears that there may be huge discrepancies compared to the actual active fleet

SWWAC AREA Fishing organisations representing SSF (numbers)

SWWAC (NUTS 2)

Comment regarding last map:

- Whereas it could be assumed that almost all the fishing fleet (including SSF) is represented through fishing organisations in Spain and France, it is supposed that 30 to 40% of the Portuguese fishing fleet is outside any fishing organisation (DGRM, com. Pers.)
- Considering the number of organisations (local or umbrella organisations) representing the small-scale fleet at SWWAC's area, it is noticeable to remark that there are relatively few in France.
- There are numerous in Galicia (mainly through cofradias with 63 local cofradias), Canarias and Andalusia (through cofradias either).
- There are relatively less numerous in Portugal mainland (numbers even include many associations that do not seem to have actual activity).

Comments regarding last map:

- Average SSF fleet within fishing organisations has been calculated out of membership of interviewed organisations (therefore not taking into account membership from non interviewed organisations, cf Annex 2)
- This figure gives information about the degree of concentration of the small-scale fleet (how far it is being grouped in existing organisations)
- It is noticeable to see that the small-scale fleet is much more concentrated in the northern part of the SWWACs' area
- It should also be taken into account that figures are not reflecting the share of the SSF within the fishing organisations' membership. And it should be reminded that whereas organisations almost exclusively representing SSF exist from Galicia southwards, it is not the case from Galicia northwards.

N.B. For Andalusia, only 1 PO among 4 taken into account; for Canarias only 1 among 2; for the spanish basque country no data for membership; for Brittany arbitrary split within membership because data available for the whole Brittany

Comments regarding last 2 maps:

- It is interesting to see whether Producers' Organisations are actually representing small-scale fleet ("represented" being considered as belonging to the PO)
- In the southern part of the SWWACs' area, it appears that the small-scale fleet seems to be mostly out of the POs. However figures come from the community fleet register and it is well known that it doesn't correspond to the actual active fleet. In addition some specific comments should be made :
  - For Azores, no data were collected regarding POs 'membership
  - For Andalusia, 3 POs representing small-scale fleet have not been taken into account (so the actual figure of SSF within PO is supposedly higher)
  - For Northern Portugal, there is relatively important part of the small-scale fleet within POs
  - For the Spanish Basque country, no data available about membership
- In Galicia, the small-scale fleet is being represented by one unique PO (OPAGA), even if it is not operational yet
- No PO in Asturias
- It is interesting to notice that the small-scale fleet in France is, in majority, belonging to PO with some regional differences (lower involvement in Aquitaine and Pays de la Loire) .

	<12m vessels in POs (interviewed)	% < 12m in POs	<12m vessels in other associations (interviewed)	%<12m in other associations

Poitou-Charentes	142	69%	192	82%
Pays de la Loire	100	71%	317	80%
Bretagne		57%	467	69%

Comments regarding last table:

- Previous figures are sourced from field interviews and do not provide exhaustive picture of the situation of representation of the SSF within Producer's Organisations and other types of fishing organisations
- Few striking points could be underlined
  - In Canarias, the unique PO is specialised on tuna-like species and do not encompass the diversity of the small-scale fleet (percentage of SSF within this PO seems to be inferior to the average percentage in other organisations)
  - In Andalusia, percentage of SSF in PO is very high because only taking into account 1 PO and a quite small number of members
  - In Portugal, south and center, the percentages of SSF within POs is quite inferior form the one in other organisations (and POs do gather small number of SSF)
  - In France the situation appears to be quite homogeneous between POs and other organisations considering percentage of SSF, even if it seem to be a little inferior in POs

Comments regarding last table:

- Previous figures are sourced from field interviews and do not provide exhaustive picture of the situation of representation of the SSF
- Splitting is made from identifying quartiles within the list of interviewed organisations ( 95 organisations for which data about membership have been collected, taking into account the percentage of SSF within the membership)
- From Galicia southwards, there are organisations almost exclusively representing the SSF fleet segment

Comment regarding last map:

- Considering the coverage through the field interviews, 108 organisations representing the small-scale fishing fleet have been interviewed out of 262 in the whole SWWAC's area
- In most regions, more than 50% of the organisations have been interviewed
- In 5 regions, less than 50% of the organisations have been interviewed: Canarias (14%), Andalusia (33%), Galicia (36%), Asturias (26%), Spanish Basque country (26%)

Nota Bene regarding last map:

- Organisations that have been interviewed represent about 5800 small-scale vessels out of a total of 14 156, that is to say about 41% of the over whole.
- Only members from local organisations have been counted (members from federations or umbrella organisations have not been taken into account) in order to reflect organisations closest from the field
- As in France, local organisations have disappeared, the numbers that have been considered are those of the existing organisations (representing the whole fishing fleet)
- For Portugal, members from Producers' Organisations have not been taken into account because same members are already in local associations (most often), except in some cases where PO are present and grouped widely the fleet and there are no other local organisations (2 cases identified: VianaPesca OP, CAPA)
- In Galicia, federations and cofradias representing shellfishes harvesters have not been taken into account (because not counted within the community fleet register)
